MOMENTS OF INSPIRATION AND HOPE: RETURNING TO JEWISH SLEEPAWAY CAMP...AND WHY IT MATTERS

After nearly four days during my time as faculty in July, I finally settled into the rhythm of Camp

Harlam. Almost instantly, I was transported back to my earliest summer in the Berkshires at Crane Lake Camp in 1976. The songs, laughter, friendships, late nights, and spirit all felt deeply familiar.

That sense of connection quickly deepened into something more meaningful. Whether movement-affiliated or independent, Jewish sleepaway camps share something profoundly powerful: they are places where Jewish life is not simply taught, but lived. Identity is formed through joy, friendship, learning, and shared purpose. And in that living, something essential is cultivated—hope.

As we approach the Days of Awe, I have returned home carrying a renewed sense of hope for the Jewish future. Not an abstract hope, but one rooted in what I witnessed and experienced.

One of the most moving moments was meeting two remarkable young leaders from Israel representing Givat Haviva—one Jewish and one Arab. Together, they modeled respectful dialogue, friendship, and the possibility of coexistence. In a world so often defined by division, their partnership reminded me that hope is built through relationships, not rhetoric.

That same spirit came alive during song sessions: hundreds of voices singing with complete abandon, arms around one another, dancing without self-consciousness. Joy itself became a form of faith—an embodied belief in a shared future. I was reminded of Emile Durkheim's term "collective effervescence" on more than one occasion.

And there was laughter. With the Rishonim boys, our youngest campers, we imagined Jewish superheroes inspired by middot, Jewish character traits. The creativity and silliness were not distractions from Jewish life; they were expressions of it.

As day turned to evening, I found another kind of community around the faculty campfire. Sharing stories, laughter, and support with fellow clergy and educators reminded me that even those of us who guide others need places where we, too, are held by community.

Perhaps nothing was more meaningful than seeing our own Shirat Hayam teens, Jules and Layla Koch, in their camp environment. They welcomed me into their world with openness and pride. Watching their confidence, independence, friendships, and connection to Jewish life offered a glimpse of a generation actively shaping its own Jewish future.

Jewish learning was everywhere—limmud, conversations about Israel, unit "assigned" middot, tefillah preparation, tutoring, teamwork, and thoughtful questions. Jewish learning and living flowed seamlessly together at camp.

Judaism was also experienced in the landscape itself: praying, hiking through the preserved lands surrounding camp, or simply sitting beneath towering trees. Holiness is not confined to our sanctuaries. It is encountered in nature, openness, and shared presence.

And everyone gets a turn. During MTV Night, each bunk performed its own dance routine. Many campers had never even watched MTV, but that hardly mattered. What mattered was that everyone had a moment to shine. In a world that can feel competitive and exclusive, camp offers a hopeful alternative: everyone belongs and everyone participates.

One of the most powerful moments came on Tish'a B'Av. Campers who chose to fast joined an Israeli faculty member and me for learning throughout the day. For some, this was the first Jewish practice they had independently chosen since becoming Bar or Bat Mitzvah. I watched Judaism shift from something inherited to something owned. Their choices reminded me that our task is not simply to hand Judaism to the next generation, but to give them the knowledge, experiences, and confidence to choose it for themselves.

And then came Shabbat.

The singing, dancing, prayer, friendships, and palpable ruach defy easy description. Shabbat at camp is not merely a pause in time. It offers a vision of the world as it might be—connected, joyful, sacred, and whole. Dare I suggest a glimpse into the messianic age?

As we continue to immerse in the Jewish month of Elul and prepare for Rosh Hashanah, we are invited to ask where we find hope. Camp reminded me that hope is not simply something for which we wish. Hope is something we build—through community, learning, joyful Judaism, courageous conversations, and meaningful choices.

Jewish sleepaway camp does far more than create wonderful summer memories. We know that it cultivates Jewish identity, nurtures resilient leaders, and plants seeds that continue to grow long after summer ends. As clergy, lay leaders, parents, grandparents, and congregational communities,

Shana Tovah U'metukah, to you our Shirat Hayam family, our friends and guests visiting for the High Holidays. On behalf of the Board of Trustees and staff, we wish you all a good and sweet year! 5787 marks the Tenth year of Shirat Hayam, but actually we have been around 140 years in Ventnor/Margate. Visionary leaders gathered in Ventnor in 1939 creating a place for Conservative Jews to worship. They called it Beth Judah. Eleven years later, Reform leaders in Margate created Temple Emeth Shalom. So, Shirat Hayam may be celebrating ten years as a unique experiment- a home for both Conservative and Reform Jews under one roof. We are not only one of a kind; we are strengthened by generations of dedicated Jewish men and women-past, present, and future-who have made this community a home.

Our combined history presents an opportunity to look back not only this past year but the milestones of our Jewish lives. It may have been a Bat Mitzvah forty years ago, or a wedding at the turn of the twenty-first century, or a feeling of warmth and peace at a service commemorating the yahrzeit of a parent. This is our opportunity to remember the meaningful things in our lives.

Yet remembering the past brings us to the present and from the present to the future. I would like to invite you to consider how your connection to Beth Judah, Emeth Shalom and Shirat Hayam has helped you create your own sense of worth as a Jew, or your feeling of belonging to something greater than yourself- a place where you can grow, learn, find others like you, and solace when you need it.

We plan to grow stronger each year for the next ten years and then even more. We have the space, the clergy, the dedicated staff, and you - our Shirat Hayam family. We are moving forward to attract new members and provide a meeting space for Jewish groups to hold events. We are devoted to Jewish education. Our Galeem students benefit from teachers and clergy who want to provide a Jewish education for our youth. We offer adult education and meaningful services with the correct ritual balance for every member of our tribe - our family of Jewish men, women and children.

Our Board is committed to creating and sustaining the vibrancy that allows Judaism to thrive at every level. To help Shirat Hayam grow, we must also commit to securing its financial future. We need to strengthen our media presence throughout the Tri-State area, upgrade our sound and communication systems, add additional layers of security to help keep our community safe, and care for our beautiful building so it remains a source of Jewish pride inside and out. Just as important, we must continue to stand proudly for our Jewish values. To support this work, we are launching a campaign to grow our synagogue for the next generations. This will be a capital campaign celebrating our Tenth Year. It will be in addition to our Annual Campaign - the Yorn Kippur appeal. The Yorn Kippur Annual Campaign helps us maintain Shirat Hayam within the yearly operational budget to pay for everything you see and don't see. Like our lives, what you don't see is more important than what you do.

Our goal will be to have each member solicited to explain our goals and to ask for your commitment over the next three years to raise $500,000. The goal honors your generosity in past Annual Campaigns. Each pledge is like a leaf or branch, helping provide the growth, strength, and services our community needs. Please commit to this Campaign, as our parents and grandparents did, to help make Beth Judah, Emeth Shalom, and Shirat Hayam a lasting home.

President

A Note from Cantor Shoshi Levin Goldberg

I don't remember many High Holiday melodies from my childhood aside from the tune my cantor used for Hayom Teametzeinu, which was certainly memorable. As the cantorial intern at B'nai Jeshurun in Manhattan, I fell in love with their tune for Ya'ale on Kol Nidre evening. Since that time, I have collected many favorite High Holiday melodies, both new and old.

At their best, familiar melodies on the High Holidays serve as a time machine, transporting us to our earliest memories of sitting beside our parents in synagogue, or causing us to flash forward to a later life stage, imagining what it might be like to attend services with our own grandchildren. We can feel a sense of profound welcome when we enter an unfamiliar prayer space or encounter a different cantor and still hear our most beloved tunes, enabling us to sing along immediately and effortlessly. Transition and uncertainty are a given, and familiar melodies often offer us comfort, stability and a sense of belonging. New melodies, at their best, are refreshing and breathe new life into familiar words. Yet, new tunes might also feel jarring, robbing us of nostalgia and community, especially in overwhelming times.

Cantors are particularly concerned about this tension during the High Holidays. At one extreme, changing the tune for Kol Nidre or Avinu Malkeinu would certainly be unwise. Furthermore, it is far easier to sing along with familiar melodies. Creating favorable circumstances for engagement and communal participation benefits us all.

However, introducing new melodies in a sensitive way has the potential to enliven different generations within our communities. Using new or unexpected tunes strategically and thoughtfully can deepen spiritual reflection, causing us to experience prayers in new ways and offering us new insights into the texts of our liturgy. New tunes keep our prayer lives vibrant and reflect our living tradition, especially when we expand our services to include melodies from different communities and cultures. Some of today's new melodies will surely become our next generation's standard tunes.

At Shirat Hayam, we know this well, as Rabbi Kremer's creativity shines through his many compositions, both liturgical and secular. It has been a joy to partner with Rabbi Cantor Menaker and Rabbi Kremer, especially at Devotion by the Ocean, where we feature many new melodies and old favorites in quick succession. I have loved leading services in this wonderful community because everyone participates enthusiastically, both on Shabbat and the High Holidays. I am looking forward to my second High Holiday season at Shirat Hayam and especially excited to join together with you in prayer and song, both new and old. Wishing you and your loved ones a Shana Tova!

Bar Mitzvah of Anton Jewayni Levenson

Anton Levenson

Jewayni will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on October 10, 2026. His Torah portion is Genesis, Where, and how it all began. He is the son of Jennifer and Abdul Jewayni and brother to Sadie. His proud grandparents are Liane and Lloyd Levenson and Bubby Joy and Bebe Atia.

Anton, a straight A student at Tighe School in Margate, has competed in multiple math competitions. His love of basketball is evident; he participates on 3 basketball teams, sometimes playing twice a day. His Mitzvah Project is related to this affinity - he is collecting sports equipment to donate to schools that are inadequately equipped.

A leader with many strengths, Anton is a navigator for family trips, a technician who fixes items like phones and televisions, as well as an entrepreneur who started a trading card business online. He taught himself how to generate money in the stock market.

Anton's family is very proud of this well-rounded young man with many friends. They envision a future of an upstanding Jewish man with good values who spreads kindness and love.

Bat Mitzvah of Layla Harper Koch

Layla Harper Koch will be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah on Saturday, October 24. Layla's Torah portion is Lech-Lecha.

Layla approaches everything she does with determination, heart, and enthusiasm. Whether she's studying hard for school or on the basketball court (which is most days!), pushing herself to improve, or spending time with the family she loves so deeply, she embraces every opportunity with kindness, determination, and a positive spirit. She's well known to be a leader, a supportive teammate, and a rising star.

Layla is the younger daughter of Stephanie Lutz and sister to Julia. She is deeply loved and supported by her grandparents, Susan and Fred Lutz, whose encouragement has helped shape the remarkable young woman she is becoming.

As she celebrates becoming a Bat Mitzvah, Layla has chosen a project that reflects her commitment to helping others by raising funds for Reed's Farm's Harvest of the Month program, which brings fresh, locally grown produce and nutrition education to students in Atlantic City schools. Through her dedication to both her passions and her community, Layla is already demonstrating the Jewish values of compassion (chesed), responsibility (achrayut), and service (tikkun olam) that define this important milestone in her life.

we have a responsibility to help make these experiences possible and to recognize and utilize the skills, confidence, and Jewish commitment our young people bring home.

I left the bubble of Camp Harlam inspired, grateful, and deeply optimistic. As we enter a new Jewish year together, may we create places that renew our spirits, strengthen our commitments, and remind us that hope is not only possible—it is already being lived. We just need to create more avenues for this to flourish.

SHIRAT HAYAM'S

Shirat Hayam's Caring Network Has a Full Agenda for 5786

The Caring Network wants to thank everyone who donated to our summer toy drive that we held in conjunction with Chai Lifeline. Joyce Schwartz and Nadine Winkelstein delivered the toys and monetary donations (which included donations made in honor of Anna Filippone's Bat Mitzvah Project) to Chai Lifeline's new facility in Jackson, NJ. The recipients of the toys are children and families in the Philadelphia area who are suffering from catastrophic illnesses.

We are ready to usher in 5787 with our annual HIGH HOLY DAYS FOOD DRIVE in partnership with Jewish Family Service. Sheila Friedman has once again graciously volunteered to chair this important community outreach event. Bags will be available to take home at services and can be returned to the Shirat Hayam lobby by September 21. A listing of needed nonperishable items will be included with the bags. If you are interested in transporting the food to JFS or to volunteer for the Community Sort and Restock event at JFS on September 24, please contact Sheila Friedman.

In October, we will commence our many CLOTHING DRIVES. We will accept men's, ladies, and children's clothing, especially coats and outerwear to be distributed to local charities in the area. We will also continue our "DRESS FOR SUCCESS" program benefitting the Clothing Closet at Atlantic/Cape Community College, so bring in those suits and work clothes you are no longer using! We will also partner with RNS again for a WINTER HOLIDAY TOY DRIVE to benefit children in our local hospitals.

There is another component of Caring Network that focuses on helping our congregational families in need. MEAL TRAIN is a service that provides meals and gift cards for members who are unable to prepare food while recovering from illness or surgery. Meals are prepared by our congregants and delivered to the homes of those in need. Also, if we hear of someone who is ill or returning home from the hospital during Shabbat, Elaine Geller and Jodi Handler (who run Shirat Hayam's kitchen) will have a meal delivered to them. In the same vein, SHIVA MEALS will have three or four of our angel chefs prepare a component of a meal. The meal is typically delivered on the last day of Shiva observance providing comfort and sustenance to our grieving families.

"TASTE OF SHABBAT" is a program headed by Joyce Schwartz, Andie Storey, and Nadine Winkelstein where congregants are randomly chosen to receive a basket filled with homemade challah and baked goods as well as fresh flowers to spread Shabbat joy. Haven't received a basket yet? You may be next!

We are grateful to our many volunteers and the continued support from the congregation to be able to have these impactful outreach programs. Wishing everyone in our Shirat Hayam family a happy, healthy, and meaningful New Year!

Meal Train

The Caring Network Committee Meal Train program continues to benefit those members of our Shirat Hayam family who are in need of short term support (for example, from a hospital or rehab stay). Participating volunteers cook and deliver meals to recipients' homes or donate restaurant gift cards; we are able to provide kosher, kosher style, dairy, or pareve meals. Homebound members typically receive up to 6 meals over a 2-3 week period, with extensions as needed.

We, and the recipients, are truly grateful to the "angels" who provide meals or gift cards to our MealTrain families.

Please contact me (609)214.9954 or nadinekwinkelstein@comcast.net if you (or someone you know) need help with meals on a short term basis, or if you would like to add your name to the list of volunteers who cook or donate gift cards.

Thank you.

Nadine Winkelstein

High Holiday food collection for the Jewish Family Service will take place again this year. Grocery bags will be placed in our lobby prior to Rosh Hashanah Services and may be returned to Shirat Hayam at any time during the next 10 days leading up to Yom Kippur. This is a great way to share our blessings with the less fortunate in our community.

Be sure to include food that is in boxes or cans only (no glass) and has not passed the expiration date.

Wishing all of our Shirat Hayam family a happy and healthy New Year.

PROGRAMMING NEWS FOR THE NEW YEAR 5787!

Shanah Tovah U' Metuka, Ketivah V'chitima Tovah!

A new year full of great holiday and educational programs for our Shirat Hayam community is coming to you. We are excited to offer you programs for the entire family. Please stay tuned to the bimonthly WAVE, weekly E-Tone, and congregational phone calls that will keep you informed on our very busy Shirat Hayam calendar.

Please check the schedule of Reform and Conservative High Holiday and Sukkot observances on the front page of THE WAVE, and we all hope to see you in person or on Zoom. Holiday seating is again open this year so come early to sit in your favorite area. (Remember to bring your tickets, which will be mailed to you!) There will also be a check-in table in our lobby as an additional security detail. PLEASE NOTE: entry to Shirat Hayam is through our lobby front doors only. There will be no entry through our bayside/Shalom House doors or administrative wing doors, which will be locked.

I hope everyone is getting excited for the upcoming High Holidays and wonderful events we have planned. Please don't forget that we cannot make these events possible without our dedicated and gracious volunteers. You all must be Tekiah Gedolah because you take my breath away! Please consider becoming a Shirat Hayam volunteer today.

Our Shirat Hayam Community BREAK THE FAST will be held again this year on Monday, September 21 in the Social Hall at the conclusion of the Yom Kippur Havdalah service at 7:15 pm. Our deluxe dairy and fish buffet, catered by Panache from Bensalem, PA, is available for a fee of $30 per person to all of our members, and we invite your family members to attend as well. (Nonmember fee is $47). The only thing that we will need to make this special event happen is your commitment to attend.

Reservations are now closed. Look for the registration announcement on our Shirat Hayam webpage, weekly Etone, and Constant Contact. Join us as we bring these "Days of Awe" to a close and come together as a spiritual community.

If anyone has any questions regarding a Programming event, please feel free to email me at szaid729@hotmail.com. Additionally, keep on the lookout for more fun-filled programs coming up at Shirat Hayam.

A NOTE FROM THE TREASURER

HIGH HOLIDAY TICKETS

* Tickets for admission to High Holiday services will be mailed in August. We ask that you bring them to facilitate entry into services.

* A reminder: to receive your tickets, you will need to pay charges remaining from the previous year and pay at least 25% of your FY25 dues.

* If you need to pay on a different schedule (e.g. some of you find it easier to pay your dues at the end of the calendar year), please get in touch with me in August.

* We are committed to working with members for whom these dues are a hardship. However, you must make such arrangements before the High Holiday services. (Please note that arrangements need to be reviewed each year). Call the office for a Dues Reduction Form, and we will be in touch with you once we receive it the completed form.

* All adults (over 18) need High Holiday tickets. Please purchase tickets for your adult children and other guests; tickets are $150 for members and entitle ticket holders to attend all High Holiday services. The request for extra High Holiday tickets is on the back of your membership packet, or you can send your request and check to the office.

We appreciate your presence and your support, and value all your contributions of time and talent.
